

Ocean Tides Management

Order in the Cafeteria

Guide to Improving Behavior

At Ocean Tides, the lunch room is the most important time to keep control. Misbehavior can happen in a second. It is the students' time to relax and socialize but at the same time maintain order. As administrators in the school, it is important to think about traffic flow, and lines for food. You must also come up with a seating chart of where certain students sit. It is also important to develop a schedule so not everyone is in there at the same time. This reduces potential for misbehavior. Rules must be clear, concise and direct.

It is important to:

Establish a code of conduct

Practice positive behavior

Assign monitors

Praise or reward positive behavior

Give gentle reminders for misbehaviors - but still be cautious- some situations escalate
